GIL STRECHER'S PEARLS

JEROME LEASE'S FAILURE

Freedom for Harry Thaw is in sight, according to dispatches which come from New York today. These dispatches say that District Attorney Whitman is planning to drop the indictment against Thaw, charging him with conspiracy to escape from Mattawan.

This indictment is the very ground-work of William Travers Jerome's machine which he hopes will drag Thaw back to Mattawan. Governor Fisher was first asked to extradite on information only, but hesitated to do this. Mr. Jerome saw he faced failure in this plan, therefore asked a delay while he might seek an indictment in Dutchess county. The Dutchess County Grand Jury refused to indict Thaw. Jerome then went into New York county, and with the assistance of Attorney General Carmichael, secured an indictment charging Thaw with conspiracy to escape from Mattawan.

DEPOSED WHITMAN'S FUNCTION.
District Attorney Whitman allowed the State authorities to usurp his function in securing this indictment. It charges Thaw with an offense which if committed at all, was committed in another county, beyond the Grand Jury jurisdiction. It would be easy to understand, therefore, why District Attorney Whitman might refuse to press the indictment. And if it was dropped, there would no longer be any legal charge against Thaw. This appeal for freedom under a writ of habeas corpus, now before Judge Aldrich in Concord, would necessarily prevail.

Thaw's friends claim that popular sentiment in New York would strongly support Mr. Whitman, should he carry out the announced intention and drop the indictment. Thaw and his counsel at Concord, N. H., were visibly elated by the announcement, as well as by the news that the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, N. Y.,

Ohio Officials Deny Soliciting Funds

COLUMBUS, March 16.—William L. Finley, chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, Emory Lattimer, State banking superintendent, A. K. Abernathy, secretary of the State Tax Commission, and Merle Miller, chief clerk in the State Banking Department, pleaded not guilty today to the charge of being connected in soliciting political assessments from State employees in violation of the law.

Gould and Covey in World Title Match

Jay Gould, holder of the American amateur title, and Fred Covey of England, the world's professional champion, meet in the opening games for the world's court tennis championship today in Philadelphia.

The match, which is best seven out of thirteen sets, is to be played in three sections, today, Wednesday and Saturday. They will begin at noon and continue until four sets have been completed.

ASQUITH FIR FOR HOME ROLL

LONDON, March 16.—The British government will make no further concessions to the Unionists of the province who object to Home Rule. The government adheres to its proposals made last Monday, said the Premier.

The government adheres to its proposals made last Monday, said the Premier. The proposals give the residents of the counties in Ulster Province the right to elect a council, but they shall be excluded from the operation of the Home Rule bill. That the ministry believes that the Unionists will finally accept the concessions already offered was indicated by the following part of Premier Asquith's statement:

"If the proposals for the exclusion of Ulster for a limited period are accepted by the Unionists, there may be adjustments of the measure, especially of these clauses relative to the financial and administrative sections of the proposed Irish government. There are no other grounds for delay."

"We are not prepared with a view to deal with the question in the light of the present time to cover all the ground. If the proposals are rejected by the people of the north of Ireland it will be a waste of time to discuss the ancillary or consequential points."

The Premier said that the proposals had been made because the cabinet believed it "the best method of dealing with the question and the logical attempt in the light of the facts of the situation."

INSUR TO UNIONISTS.
Mr. Asquith put the issue directly to the opposition when he said:

"I now ask the Unionists if they are prepared to accept the principle of the proposals outlined here last Monday? We do not know whether to go any further or not. I am smaller and older than the Premier, and I am willing to debate the question with him. I have asked questions with A. Bonar Law, leader of the opposition, and I have asked questions with him at any other opportunity."

EX-UNIONIST PROBABLY.
After he had delivered his statement the Premier submitted to the House a list of names of ex-Unionists. The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland would not count his names over any part of the House, which was a relief from him. He said that the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland would not count his names over any part of the House, which was a relief from him. SEARCH FOR ETTA ARNOLD

Have You Seen This Girl?

Here is her mother's description of Etta V. Arnold, missing Everett girl, as the left home Friday noon:
Height—Five feet three inches.
Weight—125 pounds.
Hair—Dark brown, plentiful, "done up" in the back.
Eyes—Black, heavy brows.
Mark—Scar from burn on back of left hand.
Hat—Black velvet.
Coat—Black velvet.
Dress—Black velvet.
Shoes—Black velvet.
Fringes—Old room, worked in the front with gray.

Etta V. Arnold, seventeen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Arnold, is missing from her home, No. 6 Charlton street, Everett.

Mrs. Arnold fears her daughter has been lured from home. Mr. Arnold has dropped work and all other interests in search for his daughter—the last of five children born to him, all girls.

Friday Mr. Arnold began a systematic round of all the places where Etta might ordinarily go. The case has been reported to the Everett and Boston police.

Mr. Arnold gave the AMERICAN today the following message for his daughter:

"Etta, come home. Everything will be all right. Your mother is terribly worried about you. Come home right away."

European Powers After Rivaldavia

The Argentine battleship Rivadavia is once more at the Fore River shipyards after her successful cruise and gun tests, and work will immediately start on making her ready for delivery to the Argentine government. It is known that two European governments have started inquiries relative to purchasing the ship.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The Grant Brothers Construction Company, which recently built a railroad from Kalam to Naco, Ariz., must pay a fine of $45,000 for importing laborers from Mexico to Arizona, according to a decision today of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Where Boston's Watchful Eyes Find Focus

The "Lost and Found" ads in the Boston American are faithfully followed by those who unfortunately lose and those who fortunately find.

So, if you lose anything, never fail to employ use of those swift, silent messengers. It's the surest method of insuring its being soon returned.

It is important, however, that you waste not a moment after you have discovered your loss. Write a description of the missing article immediately, telling as nearly as you can where it might have been found. Then leave the message with any of the American's "Want Ad" stations, the branch office at 264 Washington street, Main Office at 80 Summer street, or

WHO'LL WRITE BATTLE SONGS FOR BRAVES AND RED SOX? THERE'S $25 IN IT

NEITHER the Braves nor the Red Sox has a battle song. There is nothing like a good live tune, with some stirring words that hit the nail on the head—rather, the nail on the nose—to help an athlete put over the "hairs the pinch." The college boys learned that long ago. That's the way they inspire the big punch that puts the winning run over the plate and the winning touchdown over the line. Everybody in Boston is as eager to boost the Braves and the Red Sox as the college boys are to put over a winner.

BALDWIN-ALGER BOTH READY FOR HOLIDAY BOUT

By RINGSIDE.
When Matty Baldwin and George Alger meet tomorrow night at the New Edwards, A. C. in Cambridge, Boston boxing fans will have the opportunity of watching a match for the first time in many a month.

This pair, either of whom is about as good as any little man in the eastern part of the country, should furnish a most interesting bout. Baldwin has always been a willing, aggressive boxer and in Alger he meets an opponent who is cut on his own pattern.

The Cambridge chap has the advantage of youth, but the Charles River fighter has been through a stiff training course and with his experience should be able to stand off Alger. That latter, as is evidenced by his record, is a fighter in better trim than he ever was before, and will work his head off to get a win.

He goes into the bout with the will in his favor, as he will be allowed to scale his pounds at a glance. Baldwin, on the other hand, will weigh in at 115. The difference in weight threatens for a time to put the bout in the air, but Baldwin's manager finally agreed to waive his objections and let the match go through. The fact that the referee will go ten rounds, makes it almost a certainty that one or the other of the boxers will be able to show decided superiority in their style of battling generally gets quick results.

The preliminary also should be good. Fatsy Green of Cambridge and Johnny Smith of Jamaica Plain, a couple of the best local fighters, are set to go. The bout of Everett and Dave Powers of Malden, due to be fought at the New Edwards, is also being postponed. The latter four are lightweight.

Sam Langford, the leading champion of the world known heavyweight title, will make his first appearance in this country since his return from Paris, where in New York he fought from tonight, where he takes on Jim Johnson. Johnson is the individual on whom his experienced manager expects to make his arm in a fine engagement. The two fighters have been training a bit lately and ought to have a terrific getting a decision.

Joe Egan, recently contender for the New England lightweight title, will come to the contest, and will weigh in to make a division too hard for him to make any more. He will take on the boxers of the middleweight class. He is now on a "hooking" for matches with anybody willing to meet 125 pounds or more.

Jack Reed of Australia and Billy Bennett of Ireland have been matched for the National A. C. of New York for a ten-round battle. The affair will take place in a couple of weeks.

As Joe Bennett continues to make Paris his place of residence, it is hard to look as if his reported match with George Carpenter for March 17, would greatly be put on.

CLARENCE COLLIER, a C. C. Champion College, with an opponent of a little over 100 pounds, will fight for the middleweight title on the first.

NEW YORK, March 15.—ALGER BALDWIN, who is a contender for the New England lightweight title, will come to the contest, and will weigh in to make a division too hard for him to make any more. He will take on the boxers of the middleweight class. He is now on a "hooking" for matches with anybody willing to meet 125 pounds or more.

Who Got the Better of This Deal

WHAT BOSTON GOT

TY COBB SAYS THIRD IS EASIEST TO STEAL

Written for the Boston American.
By TY COBB.

It is strange how things work out. Toward the end of the 1911 season, after the Athletics were almost sure of the pennant, the old Detroit pitcher, broke Melba's arm and kept him out of the Athletics' lineup for the world's series except for a part of one game.

This injury did not damage Melba's arm as much as the disabling of Gairner did Detroit, because "Cobb" had the veteran Harry Davis to put into the lineup, and Davis never played better ball than he showed in that series.

All this has little to do with baseball, but it is a lesson in the dangers of the game.

My readers are going to be surprised to hear me say that it is easier to steal third base than second, but that it is not stolen so often for the reason the scale is not so great.

When a runner is on second base, he can take a longer lead, because the pitcher has to turn clear around to watch the bag, and if he is to get his man, he must throw and throw without looking at a rule and depending upon either the shortstop or second baseman to cover.

It is like a story I heard recently about a young fellow who said he would steal this year, as soon as he met her, whether he might kiss her.

"Just got in to awful bad sometimes," he said, "I heard recently about a young fellow who said he would steal this year, as soon as he met her, whether he might kiss her."

Mark to Fire at.
Neither has he any mark to fire at, because the base is being covered by a man on the run. He can just shoot the ball to the bag and must depend upon that some one is there to catch it. Frequently, the throw is bad, or the base is not covered through a mixup, and the ball goes to the outfield.

A runner on second can also get a run, but a man can score from second, if he is at all fast, on a clean hit, and therefore the advantage in stealing things compared to the chance taken, is not so great.

Many tricks are practiced, both by base runners and the basemen. "Bill" Coughlin used to be one of the best conversationalists in the Big Leagues when he was in his prime as a player and talker. He would begin to tell a story and talk the runner's foot right off the bag and then the runner would be caught.

I saw him get a man one day in a story. The runner did not care to mention the victim's name, for he is still in the league. The basemen and the ball boys, and Coughlin said:

We had some good game on the way here last night. There was one, that I took, which looked like my monthly salary check, and a pair of axes, combined with a little nerve, and I was in. I had them all latched up.

The base runner and the coach were both listening. The shortstop was the ball, and the runner was a yard. He had become careless and left his foot off the bag, always a bad mistake.

Come around again and listen to some more of my stories," laughed "Bill" as the celebration runner headed for the bench, and a laughing out from his manager.

Catches Youngsters with This Trick
There is an old trick, for which I do not desire to claim any credit, that I have often worked successfully from the right field, particularly on batters who are just coming in. Suppose the runner is on first base, and the batter puts up a fly to right field. The runner and catcher naturally take a dash at the ball. I ac-

Billy Queal Picked to Win Hard Race

Billy Queal, professional ten-mile champion, is being held the favorite in his race against Ted Crooks, Bob Fowler and Eddie Fitzgerald at the Cambridge Armory tomorrow night. Queal will have one of the hardest runs of his career to defeat the trio, as the men selected to run the relay are in the best of shape and general at top speed.

Queal has been in town several days and expresses great confidence of winning the event. Queal is a great favorite in Boston and a big crowd will go to the University City to see him perform.

Harvard Baseball Men Report Today

The entire Harvard baseball squad will report for the first time this season at the cage this afternoon, where Coach Boston and Captain Wingate will give the entire bunch a general workout to get a line on the ability of the strangers.

Some forty men in all have handed in their names as desirous of trying for the team. The principal search for material will be made among the infield possibilities, as the great need of the nine is third basemen. All other positions are well covered for by veterans or men from last year's championship aggregation.

English Girl Golf Star to Go Home

FINCHBURY, N. C., March 14.—Miss Gladys Ravenscroft, the English girl who holds the national amateur women's golf championship, probably will not return to defend her title next year. She sails for home late in the month in company with Miss Marie Dodd.

"I see I am a card for weeks and I have remained months," said Miss Ravenscroft today, "and I don't wish to stay if I cannot go to my training."

Travis Leads Winners

BALTIMORE, Md., March 15.—The arrival of Walter J. Travis of Garden City is making quite a stir among the golfers here, and the four-ball match brought out the biggest gallery ever seen on the Camden County Club links. Playing eighteen holes, Travis led.

WACO, Tex.—Both Tervan and Ritter had too much speed and curves for the Waco ladies' club, and the Giants shut out the Texas League 10 to 0.

DALLAS, Tex.—Mike Donah's squad, under the prod of a telegram from Manager McFadyen, won from Dallas, 2 to 0. Evelyn Smith Thaw and Paul Armstrong, the playright, were among those who witnessed the game.

HOUSTON, Tex.—The Yankees beat Houston 2 to 1. Keating and Schults, who did the twirling, were in good form. It was the first time they worked in an exhibition game, and they made a creditable showing.

COLUMBIA, S. C.—The Brooklyn Federal League team was on allowed to practice because of a Sunday law. Manager Bill Bradley set the example by attending church this morning.

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were weaker this afternoon with market dull and little of interest coming with trading. After opening irregular, slight selling pressure prevailed enough to overbalance demand. Foreigners resumed selling of American bonds.

Among declines in New York, Canadian Pacific, Southern Railway, New Haven, American Express, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, and Union Pacific. Wheat futures were up 1/2, Haulage, 1/2, and American Telephone.

In Boston, Tanners were down a point, although in the company's annual report there was prediction of $500,000 profit from the retirement of the debt to Trust, Lumber, Boston & Maine was up 1/2 and New Haven 1/2. American Telephone was down 1/2. Boston Edison was down 1/2.

Stations were down 1/2, and American Telephone was down 1/2.

Preparing for Big Truck Show

By J. C. KERRISON.

The work of dismantling the pleasure car show and making preparations for the showing of the motor truck show, which opens in the Mechanics Building tomorrow evening, has been going on all day. The pleasure cars, which attracted the largest attendance at the show, will have been removed from the building.

While the attendance at the truck show will be smaller than that of the pleasure car show, it is expected that the truck show will be a success. The dealers are making a closer study of the truck show than they have of the pleasure car show. The dealers are making a closer study of the truck show than they have of the pleasure car show.
